This is the 2nd generation of the Mills "Electricity Is Life" coin op machine from about 1904. "Electricity Will Do It" came out in the late teens and was aimed at men and suggested that a charge of electricity would improve one's manhood. The graphics on the large tin litho under glass dial with arrow depicts images of manly activities such as football, baseball, and auto racing. The center graphic shows a young man and woman sitting on a sofa giving each other the eye. Indeed the sexual message comes through loud and clear with the highest score being, "You've got it. Go after them hard!". It uses the same oak cabinet and mechanism as the earlier version. A large electric coil visible under glass powered by a 1.5V dry cell has 2 external handles that allows the user to increase the current delivered to the handles by pulling them wide. The bank was made starting in 1906 1906 by Stevens in Cromwell, Connecticut. The bank operates as follows: The three figures are moved from the position shown, on an axis under the Clown so that they are in the reverse position. The coin is then inserted between the figure of the Harlequin and the Clown. A lever on the right is pressed and the figures automatically reverse themselves causing the figure of Columbine to spin and the coin is automatically deposited in the bank. The entire action is quite realistic and intriguing and the bank is painted in bright attractive colors of red, yellow, silver and white. So far there are six of these banks known to be in private collections. This bank comes from a prominent east coast collector offering it here for the first time. It is in beautiful original condition with no breaks or repairs, and 90+% original paint, and operates perfectly. Measures 8" wide, 7" tall.

challenging and expensive to produce. The bank is considered rare and highly collectible, with fewer than 100 original, working examples known to exist. This bank came from a long time east coast collector. It is all original with the exception of the winding crank. A working winding key is included but not original to the bank. The spring will wind but the internal ratchet is not catching. When wound a little and released though, the power is enough to make the girl do 2 or 3 skips. As she does, both her legs and head moves. The original loop on her cap is intact but the thread tassel is missing. There are no breaks or repairs to the cast iron. The jump rope is an original cast iron painted gold. Measures 8" tall. 15,000.00 - 20,000.00

The cast iron marquee is lighted at the top and the advertising card features "California or Bust". The marquee card matches the reel. This machine operates properly with a U.S. 25 cent coin. The crank operated mechanism runs smoothly showing the reel that matches the marquee. The reel is slightly risqué with images of a scantily clad woman who is pictured in the marquee. There are no cabinet keys. A real beauty and great addition to any collection. The machine measures to the top of the marquee 78" T X 18" X 18" at the base.

Due to the size/weight/fragility of this item, it will require a pick up or customer-arranged 3rd-party shipping. We will connect you with reputable transport companies after the auction.

Single sided Mid-Century sign. Smokey the Bear is an iconic symbol for responsible citizenry and the care of our National Forests. In late 1944, Smokey the Bear as we know him was created. Wearing jeans and a campaign hat, this image of him and his message of preventing forest fires (message created in 1947) has been recognized by all who see him. This aluminum highway sign is no different. This example shows great color, and has quite a presence. Although this has a fair amount of original weathering, and crackling of surface polychrome, it is a testament to the millions of people that would have seen this very sign as they drove on our national highways. The wording of the famous phrase looks to have been modified at some point in its use. Instead of "Forest Fires" it reads "Woods Fires". This variation gives this seldom seen sign a rarer presence. Remember, only YOU can take this rare sign home...Only YOU. Dimensions: Approximately 60" x 80". Please see photos.

Good glass all around and adding to the interior are bucket seats with the optional large center floor console and shifter. The doors open and shut smoothly, with no sagging, no signs of door bottom swelling or rust. The weather strip is still somewhat pliable and in good condition. The undercarriage is clean with some surface rust here and there. The owner states there never has been any body damage or accidents as we also could not see any signs of this. The car has had a color top coat refinishing as the original finish started to slightly deteriorate and the owner wanted the car in good condition always. They also changed (years ago) the standard wheels to American Mags with B.F. Goodrich raised white letters. Radial T/A tires which still look in good condition (not guaranteed). And a big plus, the vehicle comes with the original build sheet! A must see automobile. 40,000.00 - 60,000.00

To start, the owner of this incredible vehicle has owned his pride and joy since 1986. Over the years, he started to make the car perfect. It was originally in good condition but he wanted it better. Most of the little imperfections were fixed or replaced. About 20 years ago, the owner sold his business, so at that time he decided to go all out and took the car to a professional Corvette restoration shop for a complete frame off restoration. The motor is a 327 C.I., 340 h.p., professionally rebuilt, which is a correct date motor, not the original. They installed the knock-off wheel kits (which are after market). The brakes were completely replaced, lines and all. Some new chrome parts, some re-chromed. New convertible top and rear window. Top frame was rebuilt and works perfectly. A lot of small parts and weather strip were replaced. Doors open and shut as they should with nice even gaps. The vehicle has been driven only 5,300 miles since restoration but never in the snow or rain. The vehicle runs, drives and handles very well. Hide-away headlights work perfectly. Now, the car is a wonderful classic, highly collectable, but there is a slight negative. The finish on the vehicle is a bright, beautiful original color red. From the doors back is close to being perfect. The hood is the same, but when you look close, the front fenders and front header panel has some small blister imperfections. Not totally covered but a little more than here and there. The owner was ready to have this fixed when private circumstances are making it more favorable to sell the car, and let some lucky, lucky person enjoy this classic. Vehicle selling as is. Has clear title. VIN# 308675111395

LOT #

John H Littlefield's portrait of Lincoln was painted after the photograph of Lincoln taken in 1864 by the Brady Studio's Anthony Berger. This photograph is most famously reproduced on the five-dollar bill. Littlefield's family was from Cicero, Illinois and were acquainted with Lincoln, and in fact, J.H. Littlefield's brother knew the future president well enough to request, in 1858, that Lincoln permit the future artist to study law at the Lincoln-Herndon law office. After Lincoln was elected president, Littlefield left the law office and took a post in the Treasury Department. In Washington D.C. Though he certainly had the opportunity to study Lincoln in the flesh, his portrait was not painted from life, and was not completed until after the assassination. After completing the portrait, Littlefield shrewdly took advantage of the brisk trade in Lincoln memorabilia. He founded the Lincoln Publishing Company to sell engravings of his portrait, and also launched a career as a paid lecturer on the subject of his famous benefactor. He was hired at the US Bureau of Engraving and Printing (BEP) on January 15, 1863.[3]

Gugler executed the center portrait that appeared on the obverse of the United States 1869 United States five-dollar bill known as the "Woodchopper" note. Gugler engraved the center image on the obverse which portrayed a pioneer family.[4] Also in 1869, Gugler completed his most important work, an engraving of Abraham Lincoln which was based on an 1865 painting by John H. Littlefield. The Lincoln engraving took Gugler three years to complete. The engraver Henry Gugler, who worked at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington, D.C., took 3 years to finish the engraved portrait. The Gugler engraving was used on the United States five-dollar bill beginning with the Series of 1928; This framed under glass engraving is in VG to excellent condition with no tears, staining or foxing. It measures 35.5" tall, 28.5" wide including the frame. 400.00 - 600.00
